ENJOYING GOD’S GIFTS

“I must enjoy all the gifts that God gives me today. These gifts cannot be saved up. There is no bank in which we can place the gifts we receive from God in order to use them when we wish. If I do not make use of these blessings, I will lose them for ever.

God knows that we are all artists of life. One day, he gives us a chisel to make a sculpture, the next, brushes and a canvas, another day, He gives us a pen to write with. But we cannot use a chisel to paint a canvas or a pen to make a sculpture. Each day has its own miracle. I must accept today’s blessings in order to create what I have; if I do this with detachment and without guilt, tomorrow I will receive more.”

JUDGING MY BROTHER

One of the monks at a monastery committed a grave fault, and the wisest monk was summoned to judge him.

The monk refused, but when the other monks insisted, he answered their call. He arrived carrying on his back a bucket with a hole in it, out of which sand was spilling.

“I came to judge mu brother,” said the monk to the monastery abbot.” My sins are spilling out behind me like the sand from this bucket, but since I don’t look back and don’t notice my own sins, I was summoned to judge my brother!”

The monks immediately gave up any ides of punishment.

“ Lord, when you come in Your glory, do not remember only the men of good, but remember too men of evil. And on the Day of Judgement, do not remember only the acts of cruelty, inhumanity & violence that they carried out, but remember too the fruits that they produced in us because of what they did to us. Remember the patience, courage, brotherly love, humility, generosity of spirit & faithfulness that our executioners awoke in our souls. AND THEN, LORD, MAY THOSE FRUITS BE USED TO SAVE SOULS OF THOSE MEN OF EVEIL.”

(This prayer was found amongst the personal belongings os a Jew who died in a concentration camp)
